MISSION OVERVIEW

The Assisi House is the retirement convent for the Sisters of St. Francis of Philadelphia, located across the street from Neumann University. Now retired from their rigorous vocations as teachers, nurses, administrators, etc., the sisters at Assisi House continue to carry out their Franciscan ideals through prayerful service to one another, their community, and their world. Volunteers can expect to be involved in a number of social activities with the sisters.

WHAT TO EXPECT

- Volunteers at the Assisi House typically play games, help with parties, and simply socialize with the retired sisters.
- Flexibility is important because you never know exactly what the project or activity will be that day.
- It is most important to bring an open ear to listen to the sisters’ stories.
