This past year the assessment for the newly revised undergraduate Core program focused on learning outcomes related to Contemplation (Engage in meaningful reflection) and Conscience (Act ethically and responsibly).

Promoting these learning outcomes is essential in graduate, as well as undergraduate programs.

The results of the assessment process will be shared at Lunch and Learn sessions in the Assisi Room 314BMB.

Following these sessions faculty and staff will be invited to develop strategies to promote meaningful reflection and ethical responsibility.

On January 13, 2015, the ideas submitted will be shared with the hope that the entire campus community will unite to promote among our students growth in these important areas.

Lunch and Learn sessions and topics include:

- September 8 through 11: Contemplation assessment feedback
- October 6 through 9: Ethical Reasoning assessment feedback
- November 10 through 13: Life-Long Learning assessment feedback

The same presentation will be repeated each day.
